

Folk artist reveres earth

World traveling acoustic guitarist Jim Scott visited Delphi community schools on Friday. Scott, who has been a musician for 30 years, has spent much of his career writing and performing choral music. With a gentle style, he instructs students about ecology and conservation. Scott introduced students at the middle school to a Latin samba and a Russian folk song. He ended on a humorous note, recounting the water cycle - from a boy to a commode, to a septic tank, to the flowers that are watered. He called the song, "Elimination." Comet photo
